The Greek word used for "judge" in Matthew 7:1 is the same as that used to refer to God's judgments in Revelation 19:11. In short, to "judge" is to separate, determine, or pronounce an opinion concerning right or wrong. Only God can accurately judge, for only He sees the heart (1 Samuel 16:7; Psalm 139:1, 23-24).

The Bible CLEARLY, over and over commands the Christian to "judge" or "determine" what is right and wrong - with the light of the word of God. God gave us a book - the word of God - and we are to JUDGE anything and everything by the word of God - and that includes Christian

What give you the right to judge people?

It doesn't require religion to want the survival of life over the long term, and the objectivity of this goal gives us criteria by which we can judge relativistic ideals as actually right or wrong. This universal desire gives us a connection to each other and to all the forms of life we will ever find.

Moral Philosophy: Yes, We Actually Can Judge Right from Wrong

The Word of God is clear that our Creator does not reserve all judging until the time of Christ's return; rather, He may intervene in history to judge evil. As the great Judge, the Lord reserves the right to bring justice to bear upon evildoers before that day on which He will bring His plan of redemption to its completion.
